"This was truly a beautiful and impressive marriage, and because of the popularity of the contracting parties, one in which all who knew them felt a deep interest. It connects two of the oldest and most aristocratic families of Virginia. The bride is the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. John Leyburn Mercer and a great-granddaughter of General Hugh Mercer, who died a patriot's death at Princeton during the Revolution. She is descended from the Waller and Travis families of England, and is a lineal descendant of Mary, Queen of Scotland and France. ## THE PRINCESS PLAYED

Cinderella in Flowerland Beautifully Presented by the Children of Training School.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FARMVILLE, VA., June 11.—The commencement exercises of the State Normal School, beginning with the eloquent baccalaureate sermon by Dr. W. R. L. Smith, of Richmond, on June 5, at the Baptist Church, were of unusual interest.

On Monday night, the senior class play, "The Princess," occurred. It was well done, presenting beautifully this charming melody of Tennyson's. In setting, costume, and in interpretation, it was perfectly carried out. Miss Frances Wyche Dunn, of Petersburg, who trained the girls to be congratulated upon her work. The young ladies themselves received the heartiest praise of their admirable presentation of this classic.

The programme began with a graceful, intricate march and drill on the lawn, in which forty-six happy seniors, training daisy and ivy covered hoops, took part. The conclusion of the drill was a rain caused the entertainers and their interested friends to hastily seek shelter in the Assembly Hall. This interruption in no way marred the excellent programme, rather, it proved an advantage, making the class songs and readings more enjoyable. Miss Hills deserves praise for the beauty of Ivy Day.

MOVEMENT FOR MUSIC LIBRARIES

The fifth annual convention of the Southern Music Teachers' Association will begin at 9:30 A. M. on Tuesday of this week in Galveston, Tex., and will continue in session four days. An exceptionally fine programme has been arranged. The organ prelude, with which the convention will open, was written for the association by Mr. Ernest H. Cosby, of this city.

It is suggested that the libraries be conducted in connection with the State and City Association and the Woman's Clubs in the towns. The movement is a most commendable one, and will probably attract widespread attention.
